* Under no circumstances will this cat/kitten or its progeny be sold, leased or given away to any pet shop, research laboratory, animal shelter or similar facility. Should buyer be unable to keep said cat/kitten bengal, the breeder is to be notified. Breeder will try to help find a suitable place for the Bengal. It is ultimately the buyers responsibility to find a suitable new home for their Bengal cat/kitten. If possible or necessary the Breeder will take possession of the bengal, to find a suitable home(no monies will be refunded to the buyer). In some circumstances the buyer will contribute monies if breeder is taking back the bengal cat/kitten. (This will cover vet costs update vaccines and wellness exams and required kennel space if needed.) If buyer is unhappy with their new kitten a replacement can be discussed, it might be at a later date, discretion of the breeder.

*The Bengal cat/kitten will be kept indoors and not allowed to roam freely outside. Some can be harness trained and leash walked with constant supervision. Always use a quick release collar on your cat/kitten for safety. Supervise some types of toys: eye balls come off, strings, feathers, bells small enough to swallow, etc. are dangerous, even small leather mice with tails could be chewed and or swallowed....take precautions even with wand toys with long lines left unsupervised.

*If this Bengal cat/kitten is found to be neglected or mistreated, buyer will surrender said cat/kitten to the breeder, unconditionally. Bengal kitten /cat is not to be declawed, breeder does not want DECLAWED. When Bengal is being sold as Pet Only, No Breeding with any other feline or another Bengal is Allowed ever. *Buyer is to provide remainder of vaccinations necessary, following the schedule on page 2.*It is recommended that your new Bengal be isolated from other pets in the house in the beginning. Just a safe place, especially if you have to go out for a time. Buyer should have taken all precautions with present feline member(s); all necessary vaccines and or blood test to be confident there is no carriers of disease. Correspondences via Veterinary Doctor (buyers) to Sellers Vet doctor will ensue. It is buyer responsibility to always give immediate medical care. Failure to do so with immediate care will render any warranty of the cat/kitten null and void. If a kitten/cat dies during two weeks period despite veterinary treatment, replacement will be made only if a veterinarian certifies cause of death with an appropriate necropsy. (unusually not the buyer Veterinary doctor) but one acceptable to both parties Buyer and Seller. If congenital a replacement of comparable quality and value as available within one year will be offered. Note:: Our cattery screens our breeder bengal cat dams and sires and checks with snograms for HCM in the line. The kittens have two three veterinary exams and checks while receiving their vaccines before they are released to go to their new homes.
